

The Evolution of Financial Markets: Digital Money and Atomic Settlement

OVERVIEW

Quinlan & Associates is hosting a seminar in collaboration with the Bank for International Settlements Innovation Hub (“BISIH”) Hong Kong Centre and the Journal of Financial Market Infrastructures (“JFMI”) on the topic of digital money and atomic settlement.

EVENT DETAILS

Date: Tuesday 19 March 2024
Time: 17:00-18:30 Hong Kong
 20:00-21:30 Australia
 09:00-10:30 United Kingdom
 10:00-11:30 Swiss / France
 13:00-14:30 UAE / Dubai
Format: Virtual
Venue: Microsoft Teams
Register: Click here or scan QR below

FIRST SESSION: DIGITAL MONEY (17:00-17:45 HKT)

- The role of digital money in the context of the current financial system
- Key differences amongst types of digital money (i.e., CBDCs, stablecoins, deposit tokens, and RBTs)
- Digital money design considerations and anticipated benefits
- Adoption implications, risk considerations, and challenges
- Outlook for digital money

Benjamin Quinlan
CEO & Managing Partner

QUINLAN
& ASSOCIATES

Tirupam Goel
Senior Economist

BIS

George Chou
Chief Fintech Officer

HONG KONG MONETARY AUTHORITY
香港金融管理局

Bojan Obradovic
Chief Digital Officer

HSBC

Yam Ki Chan
VP, Strategy and Policy

CIRCLE

SECOND SESSION: ATOMIC SETTLEMENT (17:45-18:30 HKT)

- Global shift towards shorter settlement times in the securities market (i.e. towards T0)
- Overview of multilateral netting and deferred net settlement (“DNS”)
- Benefits of multilateral netting in DNS systems
- Theoretical and practical challenges in achieving shorter settlement periods across different time zones and compressed post-trade activities
- Status quo and adoption implications of DNS systems for the financial market

Bénédicte Nolens
Head of Hong Kong

BIS Innovation
Hub

Dennis McLaughlin
INED

CDCC / CDS

Manmohan Singh
Chief Editor

The Journal of Financial Market
Infrastructures

Georg Schneider
Head of Financial Engineering

Digital Asset